

The Differentiated Library: Giving ALL Students an Opportunity at Success

When: Monday, December 7, 2009, 8:30 AM to 3:00 PM
Where: OCM BOCES CNYRIC Conference Rooms 3 & 4
6075 East Molloy Road, Syracuse NY 13211
Facilitated by: Mr. Kim P. Loucks, OCM BOCES CI&A,
Staff Development Specialist

In order to meet the diverse needs of our student population, those charged with their learning "...must create and utilize powerful information (from multiple sources and relationships) to focus instruction design." (Zmuda and Harada in Librarians as Learning Specialists)

- Explore a wonderful assortment of strategies, such as cooperative learning, tiering, and addressing styles and intelligences
- Discover that you are already differentiating
- Learn how to modify your instruction to draw on student readiness, interest and learning styles

We will all find greater student engagement, greater student autonomy and increased achievement. That sounds like the perfect teaching and learning environment for the library...and everywhere else!

Sponsored by OCM BOCES School Library System
Open to all SLS and PALS Members
Librarians, Teachers, and Administrators are encouraged to attend
Audience: K – 12

Please register by Wednesday, November 25, 2009
Attendance is limited to 30 participants.
For registration and further information contact
Sue Camille at 433-2655 or scamille@ocmboces.org

NO CHARGE to attend!
Please BYOL: Bring your own lunch
Refreshments and dessert provided